

Customizing Your Curriculum

Peggy Ployhar – SPED Homeschool Founder & CEO

#1 - "Curriculum shouldn't control your homeschool, but you also shouldn't get rid of it."

What supplies do I have access to right now? Own? Find Online? Borrow?

#2- "If all you can see is curriculum, it's time to step back and refocus on your child(ren)."

What unique interests and gifts do each of your children have? What makes learning exciting for them?

#3 "Customizing curriculum should celebrate the unique God-given talents of your child(ren)."

How can you make two simple changes right now to start encouraging the gifts in your child(ren)?

#4 - "Be willing to dream beyond typical subjects and learning styles so your student sees their unique and God-given potential."

If you were to add one additional subject for your child(ren) what subject would your child be most excited about?

#5- "It is important to leave room for God-directed learning in your student's schedule."

What are you currently planning for courses/subjects this year? Were any chosen out of anxiety or as place fillers? Would you be willing to let these go, leave these spaces empty for a time, and ask God to fill these places in His time with His BEST options instead?
